ON THE COVER

Can you name all 25 characters on the front of this magazine and the movie they're from? (answers below)

Your starter for ten...

Which actor has won the most Oscars? Which movie made Jason Statham a star? Who does the voice of the Hulk? And what does a cardboard cutout of Ted Danson have to do with a spooky urban legend? All questions you'll find the answers to among the pages of our bumper quiz book. Packed with trivia, puzzles and brainteasers, it's bought to you by the obsessive movie fans who make Total Film and SFX. We've broken down our quizzes by movie genre and level of difficulty and then peppered in extra fun and games – picture montages, crosswords and 'Bad Movie Reviews' – user reviews we found on sites like Amazon which often bear little resemblance to the film! With 148 pages stacked with almost 2,000 questions, this should keep you going for hours. Happy quizzing!

BAD MOVIE REVIEWS

Can you guess the film by the bizarre one-star reader reviews

1 "I was thoroughly dismayed to discover this isn't a movie about the current civil unrest and economic instability in Greece. Instead, this is a film made more than 30 years earlier about vain, dancing clowns wanting to touch each other's bottoms."

2 "The escape through the sewer is an obvious symbol for anal sex."

3 "The movie was a little boring and looked really fake. You could tell it wasn't real and was just a bunch of silly puppets."

4 "Aliens aren't going to travel all this way after kidnapping pilots and sailors just to have a jam session on top of a mountain with a hippy scientist and his organ. And aliens also are supposed to be green. They're hardly going to visit us if this is what we think of them."

5 "I've swam in the sea before and the only thing that got me was a jellyfish. Thank the Lord for sensible films about piranhas or killerfish—those believable approaches to the perils of fish."

ANSWERS: 1 Grease 2 The Shawshank Redemption 3 Finding Nemo 4 Close Encounters Of The Third Kind 5 Jaws 2

Who said THAT?!

Classic quotes from comedy films – name the movie, the character & the actor?

"I'll have what she's having."

"Your father was a hamster and your mother smelt of elderberries!"

"What is this? A centre for ants?"

"Just when I thought you couldn't possibly be any dumber, you go and do something like this... and totally redeem yourself!"

"He's not the messiah, he's a very naughty boy."

"I love lamp."

10

"Gentlemen, you can't fight in here, this the war room!"

BAD MOVIE REVIEWS

Can you guess the film by the bizarre one-star reader reviews

1 "Hollywood really could have left out the sex scenes and crude humour, and just given us a sweet story about a girl with a disease."

2 "Buy a ticket, stand at the front of a gig then go home and shag your missus. Take a Minicam with you and hey presto, you've made this movie."

3 "I found it extremely offensive how this movie glorified and made seem normal necrophilia. It's an abomination."

4 "There was really no need for the constant Nazi references as they weren't integral to the plot."

5 "It completely ripped off the TV series from the '80s. The characters even had the same names."

MISSION EVALUATION

0-5

You're a disgrace to the service. Licence revoked!

6-15

A promising rookie in need of more time in the field.

16-25

Impressive spycraft, but mistakes cost lives.

26-30

Rejoice! You've just earned your licence to quiz.

HOW MUCH BADASS

Take our 100% scientifically accurate test to separate the men from the boys...

1 You're walking home when you see a little old lady being mugged on the street by a gang of fierce-looking thugs. Do you...

A Strip off your clothes to reveal your superhero vigilante costume and commence the kung-fu-style cracking of skulls.

B Plough into the fracas screaming like a mentalist and hope that your insane theatrics scare off the crooks.

C Stay well clear and phone the police. Let the boys in blue get on with their jobs.

D Do nothing. Maybe the old lady and the knife-wielding perps are performing street theatre. Or something.

2 It's the weekend and you've arranged to meet up with the gang. What do you get up to?

A Combine your skills to form an elite group of commandos dedicated to writing wrongs and diving away from explosions.

B You do not 'meet up with the gang'. You tour the streets alone and hang out in the fringes with the whores and the crackheads.

C Catch a play, go for an Italian, split a bottle of wine with dinner. No point in ruining an evening by getting totally shitfaced.

D Log on, equip your enchanted coracle and begin your clan's arduous journey to DragonForge.

3 Crime, corruption, chaos... the state of your city disgusts you. What action do you take?

A Spend your evenings and weekends dressed in a tight rubber outfit, determined to rid your city of its cancerous criminal elements.

B Shave your head into a mohawk and start looking to clean the scum off the streets (not literally).

C Join a neighbourhood watch gang and organise a street party with the hope of encouraging a stronger sense of community.

D Write a scathing open letter to your councillor on your blog before deleting it after remembering he follows you on Twitter.

OF A ARE YOU?

4 Aliens have invaded: Earth is under attack from extra-terrestrials! What do you do?

A Tool up and protect your block: no gorilla-looking wolf motherfuckers are going to step on your turf, blud.

B Report to your local army base for the inevitable stirring speech then embark upon solo suicide mission.

C Grab your MP3 player and portable speakers, head to the roof of your house and blast out some Mumford & Sons. Music is the universal language.

D Just stay in and watch old Doctor Who – surely there's a clue to what to do in there somewhere?

5 The dead have risen and they're feasting on the bodies of the living. What's your first course of action?

A Secure every sharp object you have to your van and drive through the zombie hordes at 100mph.

B Collect up your rations, get on your roof and start picking off random deadheads with your air-gun.

C Hole up in your local shopping centre. Nick a chemistry set from a toy shop, loot Boots and try to invent a cure.

D Finally, all those hours logged playing Resident Evil will come in useful! If only you weren't too scared to leave your bedroom...

RESULTS

MOSTLY As
Congratulations, you are a double-hard, fully-fledged badass.

MOSTLY Bs
You're a one-person army. Your ass is bad but your sanity is uncertain.

MOSTLY Cs
You're a nice guy. But unfortunately nice guys nearly always finish last.

MOSTLY Ds
You're a renegade on Facebook, and your Twitter account is pumped.

6 What links the following actors: Alain Delon (1960), Barry Pepper (2005), Dennis Hopper (1997), John Malkovich (2002) and Matt Damon (1999)?

7 Which actress starred opposite herself as a one-legged stripper in I Know Who Killed Me?

8 And how many 'Razzie' (golden raspberry) awards did the film win?

9 William Friedkin's thriller Sorcerer, a remake of The Wages Of Fear, was released in the same summer as what other movie, arguably damning Sorcerer to obscurity?

ANSWERS | 1 All are based on Ira Levin books 2 Florian Henckel
Von Donnersmarck 3 1972 4 Amazing Amy 5 North Dakota
6 They've all played Tom Ripley in adaptations of Patricia Highsmith's novels 7 Lindsay Lohan 8 8 9 Star Wars, in the summer of '77 10 John Wagner and Vince Locke

PRIVATE NUMBERS

Can you identify the movie from the iconic licence plate seen in them?

2 The 1959 Cadillac Miller-Meteor ambulance bearing this plate is still parked somewhere on a Sony backlot, having recently been refurbished. Maybe they're getting it ready for the reboot...

3 This apt vanity plate might be made up, but the DeLorean it belongs to isn't – it's actually a registered vehicle in the state of California, licensed as the rather less catchy 3CZV657.

1 This plate belongs to the 'Black Beauty' – a supercar made from scrounged 1964, 1965, and 1966 Chrysler Imperials. Twenty-nine were made for filming; only three survived intact.

4 OK, so it's not exactly subtle, but at least this licence plate – hanging on the back of a customised 1955 Lincoln Futura – tied in with the movie's camp, knowing aesthetic.

5 No evil genius is complete without their own personalised plate. In fact, this symbolic code was actually registered in Nottingham in 1903, some 60 years before it was used on film.

6 The perfect complement to a Union Jack-ed 1961 Jaguar E-Type dubbed the 'Shaguar'... The number plate was altered to SWINGER 2 for the sequel's updated XK8 convertible.

7 A garish plate for a garish vehicle (one which the director himself drove while promoting the sequel), this made a special guest appearance in the terrific music video for Lady Gaga's 'Telephone'.

8 Attached to a Plymouth Fury (in every sense of the word), this demonic plate at least carries a stern warning to anyone who approaches – CQB stands for 'Close Quarters Battle'.

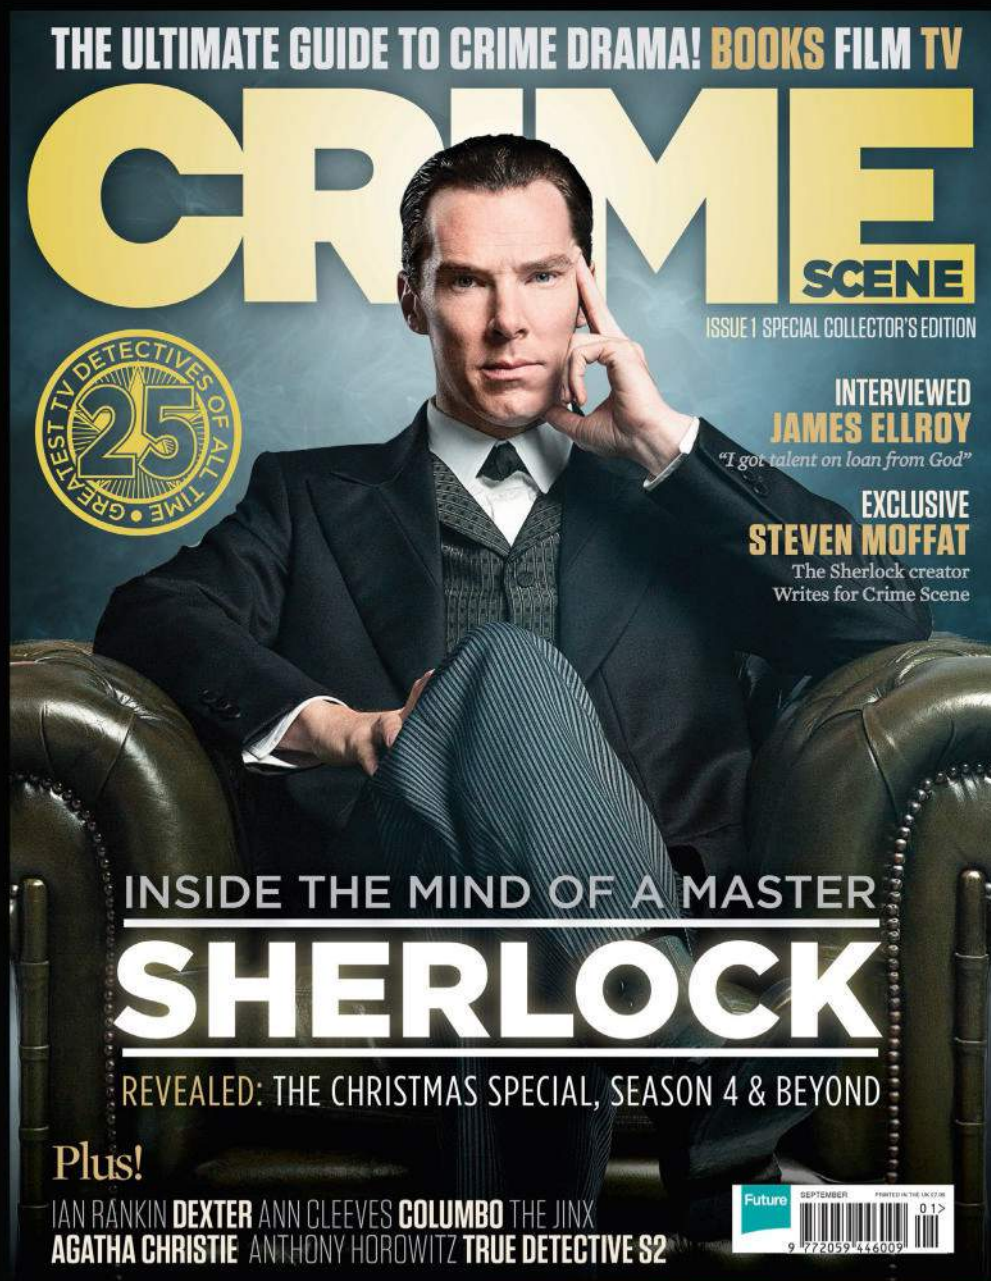

9 An old-school British plate (registered before 1 January 1973, fact fans), this prop belongs to a blue Ford Anglia inspired by the writer's fond childhood memories. Oh, and it flies...

10 OK, so this one isn't actually attached to a car. But the bigger question is: what's a disembodied Louisiana plate doing in New England? And why's it covered in fish guts?

SEANS OF

Sean Pertwee and Sean Bean describe their greatest demises. Two Seans, 10 deaths, but whose is whose?

Black Death (2010)

DEATH: Pulled apart by horses

"That was horrible! He tells everyone to rot in hell and then crack, crack, crack... it's a pretty vicious way to die. They attached my arm to one of the horses and then they pulled in different high angle shots. I've been fortunate to have some good death scenes, but I always love it when I get to play someone who knows they're going to die. It reminded me of a scene in True Romance with Dennis Hopper and Christopher Walken. That moment when you see it in his eyes. That look of resignation was brilliant."

Don't Say A Word (2001)

DEATH: Buried alive in earthy pit

"A lot of Hollywood films want to let an audience know you're dead. Nothing we shot seemed to work – there was always a chance I could survive – so I kept reshooting the scene so they could dump more shit on me to make doubly sure."

Event Horizon (1997)

DEATH: Exploded into space

"Paul W.S. Anderson wanted me to get to the bomb with one second left on the timer. I said no – I wanted that awful moment of seeing there were six seconds left and thinking 'Could I make it to the door? Could I open it in time? Oh fuck...' We tried it both ways and he went for mine."

Patriot Games (1992)

DEATH: Impaled on an anchor

"They tried my death loads of different ways and kept changing their minds about it. I had to go back to LA three times before they finally settled on Harrison Ford whacking the shit out of me on a boat and sticking a big hook in my back."

THE DEAD

GoldenEye (1995)

DEATH: Thrown off a ledge and crushed by a satellite dish

"Bond pushes me over the edge and it cuts to me flying through the air before my big close up – getting a satellite dish in the face. It's tough to do a good falling expression. It has to look like there's a bit of G-force going on."

Domsday (2008)

DEATH: Barbequed, beheaded and eaten

"I was shitting myself. I was strapped to a forklift and hung over a live gas ring at 4am. There were a thousand goth extras standing about smoking. Then they decided to roast a pig, which doubled as me. So after seeing my face exploding, they all tucked into a load of meat. I didn't try any of myself."

Soldier (1998)

DEATH: Legs blown off

"That was quite an explosion, I've never seen a ball of fire like it. I get my legs blown off and I bleed out. I was covered in flame retardant gel and they really blew me through the air. You only get one shot to get something like that right. I still have a great photo of that actually."

The Lord Of The Rings (2001)

DEATH: Peppered with arrows

"This was a great death. Peter Jackson made it so emotive. Boromir was such a suspicious character but he becomes a saviour in that final moment. It's better than being shot anyway... I've taken a lot of bullets over the years!"

Wilderness (2006)

DEATH: Eaten by dogs

"I get stuck to a tree with arrows before Alsations eat my face. I was sitting in a load of cold, sticky blood and I couldn't really see because I had a whole face prosthetic on and I had to take my contacts out. It's never an enjoyable experience doing those kinds of things!"

The Tudors (2007)

DEATH: Stabbed, stabbed, stabbed

"I took on the French army and got stabbed 75 times. I died before my Mum could make a cup of tea. She said 'Oh good, Sean's on telly!' and there I was lying in a pool of blood before the opening credits rolled. It was a damn good death though because I really gave it some."

I WANT TO PLAY

Play our diabolical game – match the death trap to the Saw movie.

It might be the most torturous trap yet devised by the ruthless Jigsaw: watch all of the Saw films back-to-back. “I wouldn’t do that,” stammers previous victim Cary Elwes. “I tried to.” The actor, who reprised his role from the first Saw film in Saw 3D as victim Dr Lawrence Gordon, had a lot of catching up to do, having not been in the subsequent five episodes. While the producers felt that the actor should indulge in a Saw-a-thon to get himself up to speed, it was easier said than done. “I stopped after a lot of them. I had to put them down, get up, go and do other things. It took me a while.” So why did he feel the need to return to the Saw universe? “They made me an offer I couldn’t refuse and I came back.”

The Pendulum

Saw 2004

Two men wake in a bathroom, chained by the ankles to the pipes, as police seek the ‘Jigsaw Killer’.

Saw II 2005

As the net closes around the ‘Jigsaw Killer’, eight victims fight for survival in a house of death.

Saw III 2006

The cancer-stricken Jigsaw puts a grieving father in a tight spot as he faces his son’s killer.

A GAME...

| HORROR |

The Wheel Of Death

Six people on a carousel but only two can live. Don't feel too bad though – they all work in insurance.

The Scalper

Hair caught in cogs, a pimp gets the top of her head peeled off like a particularly bloody potato.

The Venus Flytrap

Death by spiky helmet – and all he had to do was cut out his own eye to retrieve the key.

The Bone-Splitter

Jigsaw's personal favourite, it twists and tears its victim limb from limb. That's gotta hurt.

Saw IV 2007

Now dead, Jigsaw's masterplan rolls on as a police officer tries to save two missing colleagues.

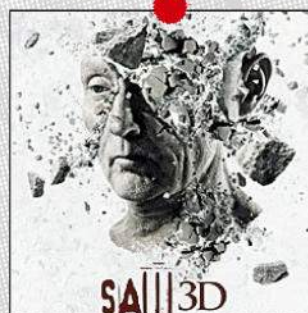

Saw V 2008

Carrying on Jigsaw's legacy, Hoffman sets out to eliminate all those who might tie him to the killings.

Saw VI 2009

Hoffman puts into motion Jigsaw's grand plan, and some execs receive their annual bonus.

Saw 3-D 2010

Dr Lawrence Gordon returns, to reveal what followed when he slithered out of that bathroom.

6 In 2009, Heath Ledger won Best Actor posthumously for playing The Joker in The Dark Knight. Only one other actor has won the award posthumously. Who is he? (Clue: it was in 1977.)

8 Only two actors have won an Oscar for playing the same character. Who are they and what is the character's name?

9 Orson Welles, Alfred Hitchcock, Christopher Nolan, David Fincher, Stanley Kubrick, Ron Howard, David Lynch, Robert Altman. Only one of these filmmakers has won a Best Director statuette. Name him.

10 Five people have won back-to-back acting Oscars. Luise Rainer, Katharine Hepburn, Jason Robards and Tom Hanks are four of them. Who's missing?

ANSWERS 1 Midnight Cowboy (1970) 2 Marty (1956) 3 Gone With the Wind 4 "And the Oscar goes to..." 5 2—Schindler's List (1994), The Artist (2012) 6 Peter Finch (Niker) Tallor Soldier Spy (2012) 7 Marlon Brando (Best Actor) and Robert De Niro (Best Supporting Actor) for playing Don Vito Corleone in, respectively, The Godfather (1973) and The Godfather: Part II (1975) 8 Ron Howard (A Beautiful Mind, 2002) 9 Spencer Tracy

BELIEVE IT OR DON'T

A-listers doing '80s TV shows, Justin Bieber redefining the superhero genre, Simon Cowell's movie career and a big name director with no bellybutton... we bring you the 25 weirdest, wildest movie nuggets – and they're all true!

WORDS JAMIE GRAHAM & JOSH WINNING ILLUSTRATIONS GLEN BROGAN

25 INGMAR BERGMAN WAS A BOND FAN

Though he was known for his bleak Swedish dramas, director Ingmar Bergman liked to kick back with a Bond movie in his downtime. According to Woody Allen, writing about the director in The New York Times, Bergman watched films before going to sleep that “didn’t make him think and would relax his anxiety”. Charming.

24 NOIR DIRECTOR OTTO PREMINGER PLAYED MR FREEZE

Long before Arnie suited up as Batman’s chilliest nemesis, legendary noir director Otto Preminger (Laura, Anatomy Of A Murder) sported crazy orange eyebrows and sickly purple body paint to play Mr Freeze in the 1960s Batman TV series. He even had a freeze ray that wouldn’t look out of place in 2001: A Space Odyssey...

23 MICHAEL BAY IS RELATED TO LEONARD NIMOY

By marriage, anyway. Nimoy is married to the über-director’s cousin, Susan Bay, which makes them cousin-in-laws. Hilariously, Bay approached Nimoy about voicing Sentinel Prime in Transformers: Dark Of The Moon by passing an offer along through his mother, who confirmed that Nimoy “might do it”.

22 CHRISTOPHER WALKEN ONCE WORKED IN A CIRCUS AS A LION TAMER

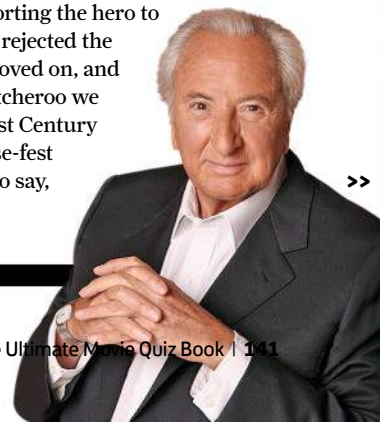

No wonder a relatively inexperienced Walken looked so unfazed while going head-to-head with Robert De Niro during a Russian roulette scene in The Deer Hunter (1978) – 20 years before, aged 15, he joined a travelling circus and worked as a lion tamer. Which, let's face it, was probably not what Jerry Lewis had in mind when he advised a 10-year-old Walken to pursue a career in showbusiness. "It was one lioness," recalls a modest Walken. "It was old, more like a dog. I went in and would do things with the whip."

Given the now-72-year-old went on to play a fair number of nutjobs over his subsequent career (a trend set by his calling-card cameo as Annie Hall's suicidal younger brother in Woody Allen's 1977 romcom), it might seem that eyeballing killer cats would be no big deal. Think again. This is a guy who loathes handguns and is scared of being in cars, who loves to dance (if you haven't already, check out his moves in Spike Jonze's 'Weapon Of Choice' music video for Fatboy Slim) and is a skilled chef. He's a contradiction and an enigma – which is exactly why he still mesmerises cinema viewers and lions alike.

21 MICHAEL WINNER ALMOST DIRECTED CAPTAIN AMERICA

If some of Marvel's director choices have occasionally prompted bouts of chin-scratching, spare a thought for Cannon Films. In 1986, the studio drafted in Michael Winner to tackle Captain America, impressed with the Death Wish director's deftness with muscular action. Even more bizarrely, Winner worked on the script with Auf Wiedersehen, Pet scribe Stan Hey, transporting the hero to the '70s. Cannon rejected the script, Winner moved on, and after a rights switcheroo we ended up with 21st Century Film's 1990 cheese-fest which, needless to say, boasts few fans...

20 SIMON COWELL WAS A RUNNER ON THE SHINING

Never mind American Idol, Britain's Got Talent and The X-Factor. Forget being named in Time magazine's '100 Most Influential People In The World'. And who cares about the annual salary of $95m? By far the most well-jel thing Simon Cowell has under his hitched-up belt – and the biggest gift he's contributed to pop culture – is polishing Jack Nicholson's axe (so to speak) on Stanley Kubrick's adaptation of Stephen King's haunted-hotel novel, The Shining. Growing up in Elstree, Hertfordshire, the teenage Cowell worked as a runner at the legendary Elstree Studios. Luckily for him, his stint coincided with Kubrick's infamous 200-day shoot of one of the most famous horror movies in history, and Cowell made his own small dent in the iconic "Heeeeere's Johnny!" scene whereby mad, bad Jack Torrance (Nicholson) splinters the bathroom door to get at his cowering wife (Shelley Duvall). "I remember him saying he used to clean Jack Nicholson's axe in between takes for the most famous scenes," says Cowell's half-brother, Tony. "He took great pride in it. You could see your face in it, it was so shiny." Who knows, perhaps it's where he got the inspiration for those gleaming teeth?

19 KEN LOACH WAS ONCE KENNETH WILLIAMS' UNDERSTUDY

Years ahead of his emergence as one of England's finest filmmakers, the Kes director worked as an actor – and even became Kenneth Williams' understudy on a revue show. "He could be very nice," Loach reveals. "We shared an interest in history, but he could be capricious. Sometimes he just cut you dead."

18 HANS ZIMMER WROTE THE THEME TUNE FOR GOING FOR GOLD

Everybody has to start somewhere, and before the name 'Hans Zimmer' became synonymous with the gut-wrenching scores of The Dark Knight and Gladiator, he composed the theme tune for '80s daytime game show Going For Gold. "It was a lot of fun," he says. "I just felt so lucky because this thing paid my rent for the longest time."

17 DAVID FINCHER DIRECTED JOHNNY HATES JAZZ MUSIC VIDEOS

Before he became a twice-Oscar-nominated filmmaker, David Fincher honed his craft directing music videos. His back catalogue includes working with Paula Abdul and Madonna (four times, including on the trend-setting 'Vogue'). Ahead of that, Fincher also masterminded slick vids for the bit-crap likes of Johnny Hates Jazz in the late '80s. "He was a young upstart. Quite brash," recalls JHJ frontman Clark Datchler. "He certainly knew that he was good at what he did."

16 JENNIFER LAWRENCE PLAYED A SPOILT BRAT IN A TV ADVERT

We knew Jennifer Lawrence was good, but we never suspected she was this good. Aged just 14, the goofy Oscar-winner starred as a spoilt brat in an advert for MTV's My Super Sweet 16 – a job that earned her a Screen Actor's Guild card and set her on the path to stardom. Lawrence revealed her past during an acceptance speech at the 2013 SAG awards. "I want to thank MTV," she said. "I earned my SAG card when I was 14... I remember it being the best day in my entire life because it made me a professional actor."

15 WOODY HARRELSON'S DAD WAS A HITMAN

When he was "11 or 12", Woody Harrelson discovered that his absentee father was on trial for murder. Charles V. Harrelson got 15 years for killing a judge. He even claimed to have assassinated John F. Kennedy, and died in prison in 2007. Harrelson Jr. spent years trying to get his father a retrial. "I tried for years to get him out," he told The Guardian. "I don't know if he did deserve a new trial... [I was] just being a son trying to help his dad."

14 ANTHONY MINGHELLA WROTE EPISODES OF GRANGE HILL

If you watched school-set BBC drama Grange Hill in 1985, chances are you were party to some of the best stories the show ever produced. Why? Well, future Academy Award-winner Anthony Minghella (The English Patient) scripted eight of the show's eighth season episodes. Rumours that Ralph Fiennes came'd remain unconfirmed.

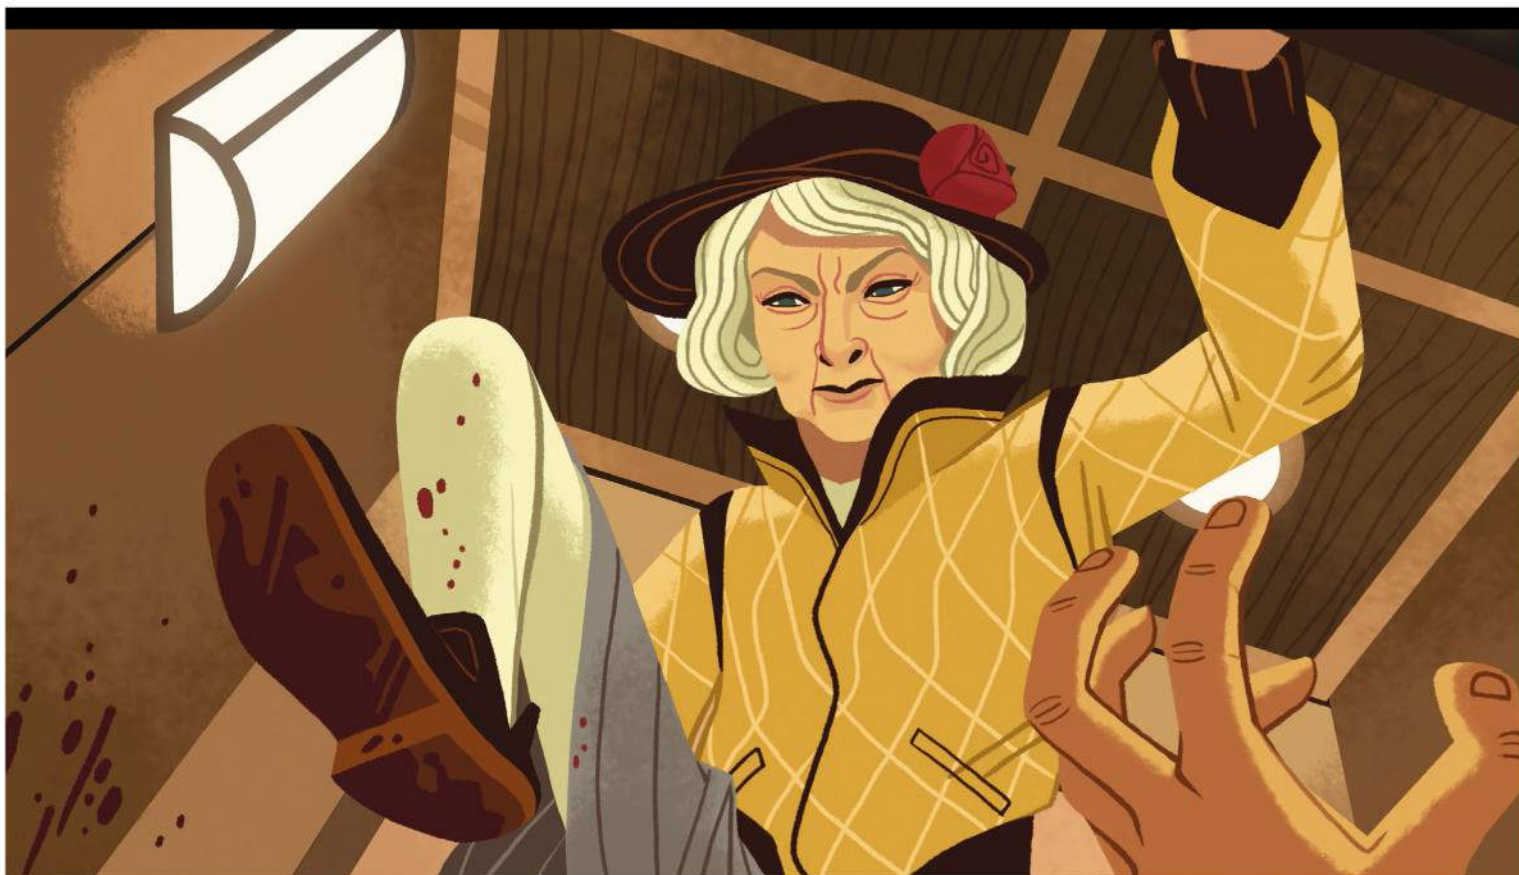

13 BRENDAN GLEESON USED TO BE AN ENGLISH TEACHER

Though it seems most actors become stars before they can tie their shoelaces nowadays (hello Daniel Radcliffe, Dakota Fanning et al), that wasn't the case for Brendan Gleeson, who enjoyed an entire career as an English teacher before he turned his hand to acting at the grand old age of 34. There's hope for us all...

12 JENNY MCCARTHY AND MELISSA MCCARTHY ARE COUSINS

You'd be forgiven for not realising that these two were related, despite their shared surname and ability to poke fun at themselves. By all accounts, though, Jenny and Melissa are pretty close. When an American critic branded Melissa a "gimmick comedian" around the release of Identity Thief, Jenny very publicly came to her defence.

11 DRIVE'S NICOLAS WINDING REFN DIRECTED EPISODES OF MISS MARPLE

Arch and self-consciously cool, in life as in his films, it's hard to credit that Danish auteur Nicolas Winding Refn put Geraldine McEwan's genteel detective through her shuffling paces. This is the guy whose blood-red debut, Pusher, inspired the Dogme movement with its rough'n'ready aesthetic, and who once declared, "I'm a pornographer; I make films about what arouses me" – y'know, 'sexy' stuff like violent serial prisoners (Bronson), brutal, brooding vikings (Valhalla Rising) and urban alienation (Drive and Only God Forgives). Yet in 2007 he co-directed the Devon-set MM episode Towards Zero (uncredited), and he helmed solo for Miss Marple: Nemesis, which saw our canny crone visiting historic English houses. Sadly, there was no head-stomping in elevators. So did he do it for guilty-pleasure love, like Tarantino turning his hand to CSI? Er, no. "I did Miss Marple because I needed the money," he said, his career then in stasis. "But it was the best thing that ever happened to me. I realised you can't walk on water, and vanity and ego are more destructive than drugs."

10 KATE WINSLET DEBUTED OPPOSITE THE HONEY MONSTER

'Corset Kate' might be a six-time Academy Award-nominee, but even the greats have to start out somewhere. For Miss Winslet, aged 11, it was opposite the Honey Monster in a Sugar Puffs ad (although you can only see her arm in the background). Still, it's not something to be mocked – she was, by her own admission, a “very passionate and very determined” child, later recalling, “If I made up my mind to do something, there was no stopping me.” And, by George, she'd made up her mind to act, spurred on by her grandparents founding the Reading Repertory, her parents both being thespians and her uncle appearing in the original West End run of Oliver! Thus, off she went to Redroofs Theatre School, then onto TV (Casualty) and, in 1994, took one of the two lead roles in Peter Jackson's Heavenly Creatures. She's since acted opposite the A-list likes of Leonardo DiCaprio and Johnny Depp, but that honey-obsessed giant will always be the leading man they have to measure up to.

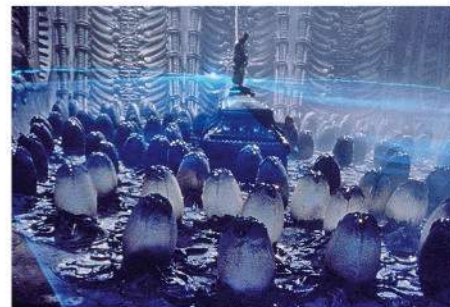

9 THE SLO-MO SOUND EFFECT IN DREDD IS A JUSTIN BIEBER SONG

The next time you scoff at the latest daft thing Justin Bieber's Tweeted/worn/said, spare a thought for his seminal 2010 hit 'U Smile'. Without it, we wouldn't have the ridiculously cool sound that plays in Pete Travis' Dredd whenever somebody takes a shot of time-warp drug Slow-Mo. Yep, the basis for that sound was Bieber's song, which composer Paul Leonard-Morgan slowed down by 800 per cent until it sounded cool enough to include in the movie. The track doesn't appear on Dredd's soundtrack (presumably because that'd be embarrassing) but whenever you watch the film, be sure to thank The Biebster.

8 DAVID LYNCH ALMOST DIRECTED STAR WARS: EPISODE VI - RETURN OF THE JEDI

Off the back of his Oscar nomination for The Elephant Man in 1980, David Lynch was approached by George Lucas to direct Star Wars: Episode VI - Return Of The Jedi. “I went to meet George Lucas... And I've never even really liked science fiction,” the Eraserhead director reveals in his book Lynch On Lynch. “I like elements of it, but it needs to be combined with other genres. And, obviously, Star Wars was totally George's thing.” Turning Lucas down, Lynch went off and made his own sci-fi in the shape of Dune. And now we'll never know what horrible, mad things he would have done to the Ewoks...

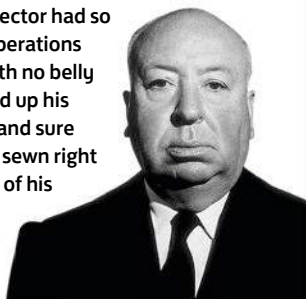

7 THE WHO HELPED MAKE ALIEN

Remember that scene in Alien where the crew of the Nostromo stumble across an enormous chamber of leather-like eggs? Remember the spooky lighting that only heightened the sense of weirdness and wonder? Well, that was accomplished using laser lights provided by none other than Roger Daltry of The Who. According to book Alien Vault: The Definitive Story Of The Making Of The Film, Daltry was experimenting with laser beams at Shepperton Studios for the band's next tour while Alien filmed on the soundstage next door. Ever the gent, Daltry loaned Ridley Scott his equipment and history was made.

REX, WENN

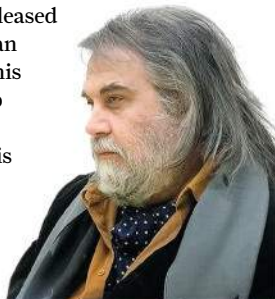

6 ALFRED HITCHCOCK DIDN'T HAVE A BELLY BUTTON

According to Karen Black, who worked with Hitch on his final film, Family Plot, the legendary director had so many stomach operations that it left him with no belly button. "He pulled up his little white shirt, and sure enough they had sewn right across the centre of his belly," she told Index magazine in 2004.

5 BLADE RUNNER COMPOSER VANGELIS CAN'T READ MUSIC

He's composed dozens of iconic scores (including Chariots Of Fire, Blade Runner and Collateral), released 40 albums, won an Oscar and spent his early years in pop music, but Greek composer Vangelis can't read music, despite having studied it since he was six.

3 JIM CARREY WROTE LETTERS TO TUPAC IN PRISON

"My focus is to forget the pain, mock the pain," Jim Carrey once said of his approach to acting, which perhaps explains why he chose to write letters to Tupac Shakur when the rapper was incarcerated in 1995. Though the contents remain a mystery, he apparently wrote to Tupac in order to cheer him up after discovering that he was his favourite actor. Considering it was the year after Ace Ventura: Pet Detective, we're sure he shared anecdotes about unruly animals and Courteney Cox.

2 DEBRA WINGER PROVIDED THE VOICE OF E.T.

The voice of ET in Steven Spielberg's '80s classic was created by sound effects creator Ben Burtt, who mixed actress Pat Welsh's line readings with the chitters of raccoons, horses, otters and the dulcet tones of Debra Winger. "Steven Spielberg asked me to come in and record a few sentences," the Terms Of Endearment actress recalled in 2012. "I went in for like one day, maybe two, to do these recordings. I've never seen the movie, so I don't know what he used. Well, I know about 'phone home' and all that..."

1 HITLER'S FAVOURITE MOVIE WAS KING KONG

Big brute tramples little people. Not hard to see why Adolf rated King Kong so highly. A movie obsessive (and a Disney fan), Hitler attempted to watch a film every day. Often, that film was 1933's King Kong, despite the fact that it was censored for the German public thanks to Nazi Health Officer

Professor Zeiss, who wasn't so much of a fan. "It shows a blonde woman of the Germanic type in the hand of an ape!" he spat. TF

4 NICOLAS CAGE GOT ACTING TIPS OFF HIS PET OCTOPUS

Seemingly crazier off-screen than he is on, Nic Cage flaunts his colourful behaviour like a baboon shows off its pink arse. This is the guy who once ate a live cockroach for a scene in Vampire's Kiss, who asked Patricia Arquette to marry him on the first day they met and who has spent his considerable fortune on castles, yachts, a jet, two private islands and more than 50 vehicles. Strangest of all, perhaps, was his decision to drop $150,000 on an octopus, claiming it would help his acting to study another life form. "To be a good actor, you have to be willing to break the rules and strive," he once said, though no one knows what he expected to learn from his tentacular buddy. Was it how to better wriggle his limbs, puff out his cheeks or cope with scenes in a water tank? Or maybe it was to choose his roles, much like Paul the Octopus predicted winners at the 2010 World Cup? If the latter, the cephalopod might have steered him clear of Season Of The Witch and Ghost Rider: Spirit Of Vengeance...

TRICK QUESTIONS

And finally... ten tricky and unfair questions to contend with!

- 1 Who is Alan Smithee and what did he direct?
- 2 Who says "play it again Sam" in Casablanca?
- 3 What links the following movies: Stab, Habeas Corpus, Brock Landers: Angels Live In My Town and Nation's Pride?
- 4 How about these: Blue Harvest, Group Hug, A Boy's Life, Till Death For Glory?

- 5 Who wrote the score for Dog Day Afternoon?
- 6 People think there's a ghost in Three Men And A Baby. There isn't. What can you actually see behind the curtains?
- 7 Audrey Hepburn goes for breakfast at Tiffany's – but what does she have for her breakfast?
- 8 What role does Michael Douglas play in One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest?

- 9 How many of the Disney 'classics' were actually directed by Disney himself?
- 10 What does the 'O' stand for in Roger O. Thornhill (in North By Northwest)?

ANSWERS: 1 No one and nothing – he's a pseudonym used by directors when they want to disassociate themselves from a movie. 2 No one does. What Lisa says is, "Play it, Sam. Play As Time Goes By." 3 They're all fictional movies within movies. 4 They're all shooting names – Return Of The Jedi, Avengers Assemble, E.T. The Extra Terrestrial, The Lord Of The Rings: The Return Of The King. 5 No one, it doesn't have one. 6 A cardboard cutout of Ted Danson! 7 A coffee and a pastry. 8 He was one of the producers. 9 None – he stopped directing in 1935 instead producing the classics. 10 Nothing. It doesn't stand for anything.
